

Biosketch Anita Niederer-Loher

Anita Niederer-Loher completed her medical studies in Fribourg and Bern with a medical degree and doctorate in 1999. This was followed by training as a specialist in paediatrics in Chur and St. Gallen. After obtaining her diploma in paediatrics and adolescent medicine (FMH) in 2006, she went to Bern for further training paediatric infectious diseases at the paediatric clinic of the Inselspital in Bern and graduated in 2008 (FMH Infectious diseases). After a 6-month baby break, she began her current work in March 2009 as a senior consultant in paediatric infectious diseases at the Children's Hospital of Eastern Switzerland, St. Gallen, as well as in the travel medicine consultation of the Cantonal Hospital, St. Gallen. In 2014, she was further trained in vaccinology within the Infovac team and has been working as an Infovac expert since 10/2014. She has been a member of the Federal Commission for Vaccinations (EKIF) since 01/2016.

Conflicts of interest

Name	Legal form	Organ	Function
Kantonale Fachkommission für Migrationsfragen (SG)	Commission	N/A	Member
Eidgenössische Kommission für Impffragen (EKIF)	Commission	N/A	Member
Expertenkomitee für Reisemedizin	Commission	N/A	Member
VacUpdate (Multisponsoring, SAMW-guidelines)	N/A	Organizing committee	Member
FoMF (Multisponsoring, SAMW-guidelines)	N/A	Continuous education for physicians	Speaker